

9 ICICLE CREEK CENTER FOR THE ARTS

Artist: Richard Beyer | Medium: Cast Aluminum | Location: Snowy Owl Theater patio
This statue depicts a man, a wife, two children, a dog and a cat watching the news together. Only the cat isn't watching the news! KingTV commissioned Richard Beyer to create "The Kingstones" in 1988. It was later donated by TEGNA to Harriet Bullitt, who gifted it to the Snowy Owl Theater.

OUR MISSION

Our mission is to provide a year-round retreat where nature, performing arts, recreation, and healthful dining inspire reverence for earth's life-giving wellspring. - Harriet Bullitt

Our magnificent natural setting in the Cascade foothills continues to inspire artists of all kinds whose works are woven into the fabric of the Sleeping Lady experience. Sleeping Lady's walking tour provides a comprehensive view of works by professional artists and local craftspeople that contribute to the beauty of our buildings and surroundings. Enjoy the diversity of human creative expression of all kinds - as you explore our collection, indoors and out.

ARTIST IN RESIDENCY PROGRAM

Sleeping Lady Mountain Resort is proud to offer an Artist in Residence program welcoming creators of all disciplines to immerse themselves in the quiet beauty of the Cascades. This opportunity provides dedicated time and space to create within a setting defined by nature, stillness, and inspiration.

In exchange for their stay, each participating artist contributes a finished piece of work that becomes part of the resort's permanent collection, shared with guests and visiting artists for years to come. It is a celebration of creative exchange, place-based inspiration, and the lasting connection between art and landscape.

2 ICICLE CREEK

Artist: Various | Medium: Recycled materials on fiberglass
Location: Kingfisher Meadow by Icicle Creek

Soul Salmon followed the example of Chicago's "Cows on Parade", teaming business and civic patrons with artists to place dozens of large, wildly decorated fiberglass salmon sculptures in communities throughout Puget Sound to raise awareness of the importance of wild salmon to our ecosystem. Nine salmon were installed along Icicle Creek's banks below the Kingfisher Restaurant in 2001 to add spiritual energy to habitat restoration efforts, bringing the fish back to their traditional spawning grounds for the first time since 1939. In 2009, through the partnership with Icicle Arts, two Soul Salmon were refurbished by local artists.

3 KINGFISHER RESTAURANT AND VICINITY

Artist: Dale Chihuly | Medium: Glass | Location: Outside of Kingfisher

Whether illuminated by the sun or moon, Dale Chihuly's Icicles sparkle like a living presence from the forest. Almost nine feet tall, the sculpture of 1,060 parts in the shape of icicles was Chihuly's first permanent outdoor installation. Designed to withstand the dramatic temperature changes of the Leavenworth area, each piece is secured to a steel armature attached to one of the largest boulders on the site.

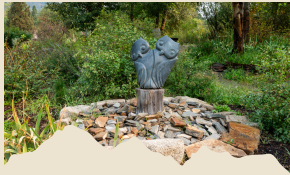

After numerous discussions about a special installation for the Sleeping Lady Chapel, Chihuly awoke the day after Thanksgiving 1996, inspired to drive from his home in Seattle, over the Cascade Mountains to share his extraordinary vision with Harriet Bullitt. With the help of engineers, welders, drillers, a lighting designer, a solar consultant, a geologist, a forester and Chihuly's own installation specialists, the Icicle Creek Chandelier was installed in below freezing temperatures and snowfall. Bullitt wrote, "Seeing how the Icicle Creek Chandelier was made only heightens the sense of wonder one feels at viewing this startling piece. It is a permanent reminder of how a human-made creation can be framed in nature and find harmony within it."
